A FOREWORD BY THE VERMONT MEMBER.

When asked to write a foreword for a Michigan magazine, we thought that such words should come from Michigan members; but the editor and Mrs. Chamberlain prevailed upon us to attempt it. After much thought we submit the following Vermont lore to the readers.

All through the Middle West, from the opening of that vast territory to the Civil War, one of the great building tools was the carpenter's square. From the old letters that were written to Stephen Whipple by his brother Angell and his sons Edward and Heman we find the record of the sales of the first squares ever made in America to the builders of the West.

As early as 181, Elias Hawes came into Southern Vermont, seeking a blacksmith who owned a triphammer. At the shop of Stephen Whipple in South Shaftsbury he found, not only the needed triphammer but a man of the necessary business ability to manufacture and sell his idea. The idea was that, if two pieces of steel could be welded at right angles and graduated on both the body and tongue the service of the carpenter's tri-square could be greatly enhanced.

By 1828 Edward Whipple, son of Stephen, and Stephen's brother, Angell, were selling this new product to the men who were migrating to the Northwest Territory. Later Edward settled in Illinois and a steady stream of squares went out to him. Stephen built a stone shop in 1828, about thirty feet square, on Parran Creek, and built four forges in it for the manufacture of squares. Here they were made and stamped and graduated by hand and sold for $3.00 a piece.

Stephen Whipple was born in Cheshire Massachusetts in 1781, the tenth child of Stephen and Zilpha Angell Whipple. He married Lovisa Eggerton, daughter of Scout Eleazer and Sarah Hyde Eggerton, March 10th, 1810, at Bennington, Vermont. The earliest deeds record his purchase of land in Shaftsbury that same year. His account books give the record of the purchase of building material for his house and the first shop in 1810.

As Mr. Whipple grew older and less able physically to meet the demands of the fast growing trade in squares in America a group of three men, with money to invest, built the present factory on Parran Creek, down-stream from the Whipple shop, and added many new machines for polishing, graduating and stamping the square stock. About 1860 the name "Eagle" was suggested as a trade-name by Walter Hawes, a son of the inventor. After the Civil War a new building boom demanded a larger output. The shop was enlarged in the '80s, and several men of mechanical ability found opportunity for work in developing and perfecting the manufacture of the Eagle Square.

About 1900, Lewellan Cole, the Mechanical Superintendent, foresaw the idea of piece-work in tool making as the cheapest method. The machinery, therefore, underwent a complete revolution, so that by 1915 the Company could fill the demand for carpenter squares at a much lower rate than the other five American shops. The origin of the rafter table stamped on the body of the square, as used in the building trades, can be traced to Mr. Cole as the original designer. In 1925, Mr. Arthur Dunham, successor to Mr. Cole, made the meter table available to the rafter square for South American trade.

The home and birthplace of the carpenter square is Shaftsbury, although many thousands are made elsewhere. At present the Eagle Square factory is a branch of the Stanley Tool Company of Connecticut, and furnishes work for 150 men in the village who own their own homes and have some stock in the company.

Daughter of Lewellan Cole — Isabel L. Cole.

NOTES OF THE SOCIETY

A number of our members have added research to their summer trips. Mr. and Mrs. L.A.Merrill were in St.Paul, Minn., where Mr. Merrill worked in the library and also in Newberry Library, Chicago. Mrs. Jefferson Butler attended the Conover family reunion in Atlantic City and thinks she found a clue to her Conover line. Mrs. E.B.Kresge searched records in Pennsylvania New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont and Rhode Island, and was well rewarded. Mr. Elijah H. Owen attended the John Owen family reunion in Connecticut and spent six weeks collecting data there and in Massachusetts and New York, bringing back some valuable records. Dr. and Mrs. Edward Simpson Everett planned research in Tompkins County, N. Y. Mrs. Z.R.Peterson continued her Southern researches in Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. F.A.Tiedgen "did" some parts of Massachusetts. Mr. and Mrs. James McGlynn, on a return trip from New York, stopped at a number of towns finding records and relatives in each one. The Society will benefit from all this research, and would be glad to hear from all of you.

We note with appreciation that Mr. Donald Lines Jacobus has included this magazine in his latest "Index to Genealogical Periodicals" with a nice little note calling attention to it as one of the newer periodicals in this field.

Of interest to us is the new quarterly magazine of the Wisconsin Genealogical Society "Wisconsin Families". The editor-in-chief is L.Worwick McFee, brother of our own Roy E. McFee. The first issue will be found in Burton Library.

The speaker at the June meeting of the Society was Mr. William L. Lawler, President of the Algonquin Club and of the Detroit Council on Local History. His subject was "The Islands of the Great Lakes", the object of his special research. A lively discussion followed his interesting talk.

Dr. and Mrs. H.L.Harrington attended the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of his parents on June 2 in Ogden Twp. Lenawee Co. Michigan. The father Daniel Bolton Harrington son of James and Catherine (Bolton) Harrington, was born in Ogden Twp. June 24 1864, and has lived there all his life. On May 31, 1890 he married Mary Ann Engel daughter of Thomas and Margare (Sadler) Engel, of Palmyra Michigan who was born April 3 1872. The eleven children of his marriage five sons and six daughters were all present. A family history is being compiled.

Mr. Delon New on Woodruff and family attended the Newton family reunion at Medina, Ohio on Aug. 15. This is the Mathew Newton(of Stonington) Relief Straight branch of the Newton family. The first gathering of the family was held thirty-five years ago in 1905, then in 1907 and 1913 and has now been revived.

Mr.H.F.Sturtevant attended the reunion of the descendants of his great-great grandparents Thomas Hunt and Sarah Champion. It was held at Marietta, N.Y.

Dr. A.A.Knapp President of the Knapp Family Association 489 Fifth Ave., N.Y. announces that family data collected by Ezra Fred Knapp, genealogist, and the Association, is now being prepared for publication in book form. All descendants of the KNAPPS who settled in New England about 1630 who are interested in having their lineage in this genealogy are invited to join the Association and to send their family records to Ezra Fred Knapp, Nedrow, N.Y. Our Mrs. Wm.F.Carter, now of Indianapolis, Indiana, is a Vice-President of the Knapp Family Association.

VITAL RECORDS FROM "THE DETROIT GAZETTE" 181[illegible]-1830

Deaths Recorded in 1822.

Jan. 4 1822. The Hon. Wm. A. Trimble, a Senator from Ohio, died at Washington on the 13th ult. aged 35 years. His death was occasioned from the effects of a wound, received in the memorable sortie at Fort Erie. He was in this place when it was surrendered by Hull, and was known by many of our fellow-citizens and for his usefulness and integrity, respected by all.

Dec. 15 1822. At Canandaigua N.Y. on the 27th ult. Miss Elizabeth Cole, sister to Messrs. J.L. & H.S. Cole, of this city. (J.L. & H.S. Cole opened law offices in the Steam Boat Hotel Jan. 3 1822.)

March 29, 1822.(Friday) In this city, last Wednesday evening Mr. David Henderson.

May 3, 1822. On Sunday, the 31st (21?) ult. two men, two women and three children, were drowned in Lake St. Clair. - They were in two canoes (lashed together) and were endeavoring to cross from the mouth of the river Thames to this side of the lake. We are not informed of any particulars respecting this frightful disaster, and are acquainted with the name of Mrs. Nolan, who was the mother of the three children. Mr. Nolan is now in this place and we are informed is partially deranged in consequence of his loss.

June 21, 1822. Gen. John Stark the last General of the heroic soldiers of the revolution, died on the 8th of May, 1822 in N.H. aged 94 years 8 months and 24 days.

--------- A person whose name is supposed to be W.B. Blakeley was lately drowned in the Muskingum river, O. - Persons who may know anything of the deceased are requested to address the Post Master at Coshocton, Ohio.

Aug. 2 1822.(Friday) In this city on Tuesday last, Captain John Connelly.

--------- On Monday last, Mrs. Jane Dodemead, in the 64th year of her age, one of the oldest inhabitants of this city.

Aug 22, 1822. At Oakland, in Oakland county, on the 20th inst. John S. Davis, Esq. Mr. Davis removed from Oswego in the state of New York into this territory but little more than a year since. He was one of the most active and intelligent settlers in the section of country in which he lived --- Mr. D. had been a man of business and of considerable property, but unforeseen misfortunes had divested him of it. Possessing an enterprising mind he sought the wilds of Michigan, settled himself in a beautiful situation and had begun to realize the truth that industry and enterprise can overcome almost any difficulty ---- The interesting address, which but a few days since, he delivered at the installation of a Lodge at Pontiac will doubtless be long remembered by those who heard it. - It breathed the language & the spirit of a Christian and a mason.

Aug. 30, 1822. At the residence of Mr. D. G. Jones near this city on Friday the 23d inst. Mr. Wm. M. Annin. On the Sunday following his remains were deposited in the Protestant Burying Ground and a Funeral Sermon delivered by the Rev. Mr. Moore. At the age of 14 he engaged in the study of law at Onondaga N.Y., at the age of 19 was entrusted by his employer with some of the details of his practice. The sickness which terminated in his death became deeply seated in the month of February last. At that time he was residing at Onondaga N.Y. and as the symptoms of his disorder grew more threatening in their aspect it was thought advisable to remove him to the residence of his friends in Detroit that he might close his days under the roof, and enjoying the christian society and kind attentions of an only sister. ---- He died without a struggle he gently swooned in death, and fell asleep in the arms of Jesus.

Sept. 6 1822. At Fort Meigs on the 18th ult. Almon Gibbs Esq. postmaster of that place and Collector of the Port of Miami - a man of integrity and usefulness in his several offices.

Sept. 6 1822. In this city on Thursday the 29th ult. Mrs. Warren wife of Mr. P. Warren.

----------(Friday) On Wednesday last Mrs. ---- Henderson.

Sept. 13 1822. On the 6th inst. at Miami Mr. Ralph Roby brother of Mr.J.S. Roby, of this place.

Sept. 20 1822. In this city, on Friday the 13th inst. Charles Roby Esq. aged 40 years(brother to Mr. John S. Roby). No' long since he removed from Massachusetts. and settled with his family at the Miami Rapids Ohio where he was taken ill and from whence he came to this place for the benefit of his health - but his disease was too deeply seated to be removed by human means. His remains were committed to the grave on the 14th by the masonic brethren of the two Lodges of this city.

Oct. 4 1822. In this city, on the 29th ult. the Reverend Alanson W. Welton in the 34th year of his age. Mr. Welton came to this city in November last from the county of Ontario, state of New York and since his arrival he has for the greater portion of the time preached with faithfulness the word of God to the people of this city and its vicinity----- His enterprise lead him to examine thoroughly the vast tract of country between this place and Saginaw Bay and river--- was solely for the benefit of those who wished to emigrate. ---A few days previous to his death, he made another tour to the Saginaw country--- and it is supposed that the fatigue and exposure---produced the disease of which he died (typhus fever)---Mr. W. for some months past---has taken charge of the education of the youth of this city, engaged in the study of mathematics and the dead languages --he left a widow and three infants. The remains of Mr. W. were commited to the grave on the 30th ult. by the brethren of the two Lodges of this city--- the funeral sermon delivered by the Rev. Mr. Moore.

By Florence Cooley Miller.

Note At our request Mrs. Miller wrote a foreword, but her accompanying letter was so interesting that we have included parts of it to make this article. Mrs. Miller, who was 82 years old on Aug. 14, 1940 is a real Michigan pioneer, and a very active genealogist. She still lives in the old homestead at Dryden Mich.

I have never written anything for publication and I scarcely knew which of my ancestors to choose for a subject. My father and grandfather Cooley, both Michigan pioneers, were my first choice. Then I thought of Martha Pitkin, the beautiful self-reliant English girl who came to America to try to persuade her brother William Pitkin, Attorney-General and Treasurer for the colony, to return to England with her and was induced to stay here, married Simon Wolcott and they became the ancestors of six governors.

Next on my list was Penelope Van Princes, the young Dutch bride, who with her husband started for America, New Amsterdam, in the 1600s was shipwrecked off Sandy Hook, got ashore on pieces of wreckage was beset by Indians who killed her husband and left her for dead. After a week of suffering she was rescued by a friendly Indian and taken to her countrymen at New Amsterdam. She later married became the mother of a large family and died at 102 years of age.

Then there was the story of Mary Clement Osgood, daughter of Rev. Peter Clement, mother of eleven children who, with several others, was pointed out by the "Afflicted Ones", at a meeting called for the purpose, as the witches who were causing the illness of a woman in the community. I was quite inclined to this use for we have stood in the upper room of the old "Witch House" where the witches were tried and in the dungeon where they were confined while the authorities were waiting for a fine day for the execution so that a large crowd might witness it. In the meantime the people came to a better frame of mind and the very ones who signed a warrant for their arrest now signed a petition for their release and they were freed after several months imprisonment.

My mother's great grandfather Ebenezer Smith is to me another interesting character. There was no one in Ashfield licensed to perform the marriage ceremony so when their wedding day arrived he and Remember Ellis his bride rode, mounted one horse, while his father Ithiel Smith carrying his gun rode ahead on another to protect them as they rode through the woods to Deerfield where they were married.

Then Mr. McComb suggested that I write about Col. Cooley of Pittsford Vt.

Col. Benjamin Cooley, son of Benjamin and Mary Needham Cooley and a descendant in the fifth generation of Benjamin and Sarah Tremaine Cooley the first of the name to settle in America was born in Greenwich, Mass. April 30 1747. His older brother Gideon Cooley son of his father's first wife, Elizabeth Charles who had served for three years in the French and Indian War returned at the close of the war and in 1765 was married to Elizabeth Osborn. In 1766 he went to Vermont and took up land in Pittsford. Having secured a deed from Capt. Doolittle, he returned to Greenwich for his younger brother, Benjamin then 19 years old. Their father was unwilling to give Benjamin his time so the brothers went up to Vermont and made maple sugar, then returned to Greenwich where Gideon remained another year and worked for his father as compensation for one year of Benjamin's time.

In the spring of 1767 the two brothers started for Pittsford, Vt. Benjamin took up 100 acres what has since been known as the Cooley farm. He built a house and on Feb. 18 1773 he was married in Rutland Vt. to Ruth Beach, born in Morristown, New Jersey, Jan. 11 1756. She was the daughter of Gershom and Elizabeth Salter Beach who were residing in Rutland at the time of her marriage.

Fearing for the safety of his family during the troubles of the Revolutionary War, Benjamin returned with them to Greenwich, Mass. Having two children, he placed his wife on a horse, and his children, one in each of two pioneer baskets which were suspended on either side of the horse. (Our grandfather Samuel Cooley was one of these babies.) Thus they crossed the mountains the father carrying his gun and leading the horse. Having provided for the safety of his family Benjamin Cooley returned to Pittsford to defend his property and to take part in the war. He was in the company known as "The Green Mountain Boys" under Ethan Allen at the taking of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, and was with Allen at Montreal. He and his company were the first to enter the fort of Ticonderoga and he was said to have been the first man through the gate. From the Vermont Revolutionary War Roll we learn that he served in Col. Warren's Regiment of Militia, also in Col. Ethan Allen's Regiment. He was for years a member of the General Assembly (Representative) of Vermont, was also Clerk of Rutland County.

Both Col. Benjamin and Ruth Cooley were faithful members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and as there was no place of worship for this denomination in Pittsford the meetings were for sometime held in their home, a frame house which had soon replaced the log cabin. Family tradition says that on one occasion an unusually large congregation had assembled to attend the Quarterly Meeting. Some say it was the M.E. Conference which was held in Col. Cooley's barn. In order to provide dinner for so many people very hot fires were built in the large fireplaces the chimney caught fire and the house and most of the contents were burned the people being too excited to carry to a place of safety the things which were thrown from the upper windows. However one young man saved a large iron kettle from the flames by carrying it across the small river to a safe place.

Another house was soon built the second floor being made into a hall for church meetings. When we visited Vermont in 1930 we stopped at one of the stores in Pittsford to inquire for the old Cooley place. The merchant said "Oh yes. I know the place. I have been out there to class meetings and heard the Governor speak there last year." It seems that Col. Cooley taught a Bible class which is still kept up as the "Col. Benjamin Cooley Bible Class" and on a certain Sunday in October of each year the members of the class and as many of the townspeople as care to join them go out to the old Cooley home, hold service and have a picnic dinner. We were shown a large framed photograph of the last (1928) meeting in which the Governor of Vermont was a prominent figure.

The old house was still standing and a member of the family of the present owner kindly escorted us all over the place. Although they were making many changes the two big fireplaces where Grandma Ruth cooked the meals for the large family were unchanged. The large hall on the second floor had been made into several bedrooms with a hall running the whole length of the house. Outside we were shown a small white marble monument erected by the "Col. Benjamin Cooley Bible Class" on which the inscription was

House 100 ft. west erected by
Col. Benjamin Cooley
in 1798
Second floor planned and used for first Methodist preaching
in Pittsford

Col. Benjamin Cooley
Bible Class

This inscription on the little white monument spoke to us more clearly of the life and character of our great-grand parents than did the story of Col. Cooley's military career. Before we left the place the little girls of the family brought us two beautiful bouquets from their gardens which we took to the cemetery back of the church in Pittsford and laid on the graves of Col. Benjamin and Grandma Ruth Cooley.

SAMUEL TOMPKINS AND MARTHA ALPHENA (TODD) SCHUREMAN AND THEIR DESCENDANTS
By Frances Ida Schureman Judd

C2 Thomas Pell, born ca. 1615, inherited from his father the Manor of Pelham thus becoming the Third Lord of Pelham. He married Anna -- who tradition asserts, was a charming Indian Princess, daughter of Ninham or Wampage, also known as "Ann Hoock", chief of the Westchester Indians. (Anne Hutchinson and her family were slain at Eastchester, Westchester Co. and tradition relates that Ann Hoock derived this name from the custom among Indians of adopting the name of their most prominent victim. "Ann Hoock" being a corruption of Anne Hutchinson. Governor Keift had dealt treacherously with the Indians, depriving them of their rights and by false promises, securing the sylvan paradise which Westchester Co. must have been at that time. If there were ever extenuating circumstances for exterminating a people the Indians of that hour could claim them. Anne Hutchinson -also an ancestress- the most intellectual woman of her time unjustly banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony by sixteen supposedly civilized white men, given no opportunity for self-defense, had sought refuge in the wilds and had befriended the Indians. Probably her slayer did not know this and her only offense was that she and her family were pale-faces.) Ann Hoock's name appears upon many Westchester Co. deeds and legal papers. One of the numerous Indian mounds still in existence at the waters edge near Pelham's Neck is said to be the burial place of Ann Hoock.
Children of C2 Thomas and Anna Pell:

I. John (3) Pell, b. 1702; d. 1773; m. - Totten; left children.
II. Thomas (3) Pell, of Eastchester, b. 1704; will 1753; m. Dorothy Ward.

Son of Howland Haggerty (8) Pell:
1. Howland H. (9) Pell, Jr., Capt World War.

b. Theodore Roosevelt (8) Pell, b. May 12, 1878 at Yonkers, N. Y. First Lieut. World War, Capt Officers Reserve Corp, Ordnance Dept.

c. Stephen Hyatt Pelham (8) Pell, b. Feb. 3, 1874 at Flushing, Long I., N.Y.; m. Apr. 17, 1901, Sarah Gibbs Thompson, dau. of Robert Mean and Sarah (Gibbs) Thompson and granddaughter of Wm. C. Gibbs, Gov. of Rhode I. Mrs. Pell d. Aug. 4, 1939 in Boston, Mass. She served with distinction 1936 to Aug. 4, 1939 as Chairman National Woman's Party. During her incumbency the Equal Right's Amendment for the first time received favorable reports from the Sub-judiciary Committees of both House and Senate, and reached the floor of the Senate. Mrs. Pell's speech on this occasion is a notable one. Mr. Pell, a New York Banker and Broker of the firm of S. H. P. Pell and Co. served with honors in both the Spanish-American and World Wars. In 1908 Mr. and Mrs. Pell purchased of the Pell heirs the title to the extensive Garrison Lands, the old Fort Ticonderoga, the old Pell mansion on the Lake, and King's Gardens at Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y., all of which they have restored, converting the Fort into one of the finest military museums in the U.S. (The writer takes this opportunity to thank Mr. Pell for the valuable genealogical assistance which he has freely contributed.)
Children of Stephen H. P. (8) and Sarah (Thompson) Pell:
I. Robert Thompson (9) Pell, b. Mar. 9, 1902, connected with the State Department, Washington, D.C. whose activities have centered largely at the American Embassies in Paris and London.
II. John Howland Pell, b. Aug. 9, 1904, at one time of Syosset, Long I. N. Y. A New York attorney; one time Editor of the North American Review.

V. Caleb (3) Pell, b. 1712; d. 1768, m. Mary Ferris, who d. 1772, male line supposed to be extinct.
VI. Philip (3) Pell. Will 1757, m. (1) Hannah Mott; m. (2) Phoebe Fitch.
VII. Joseph (3) Pell, b. 1715; will Aug. 31, 1752; interred on Bartow Place. M. Phoebe Dean, b. 1720, d. Mar. 22, 1790. They lived at Pelham Manor. Their son Joseph (4) Pell (1740-1776) was the Fourth Lord of Pelham. They left children.

C 3 VIII. Anna (3) Pell, m. F2 Samuel (2) Broadhurst (son of F1 Jonathan Broadhurst) (of whom later).

IX. Mary (3) Pell, m. Samuel (3) Sands (son of Samuel 2 and Dorothy Ray-Sands, and grandson of Capt. James and Sarah 2 (Walker) Sands).
X. Sarah (3) Pell, m. Benjamin Palmer (son of John and Rebecca (Baxter) Palmer, grandson of Sylvanus and Mary Palmer, great grandson of Samuel and Mary Palmer, great-great grandson of William and Martha Palmer of Westchester Co., N. Y.)
XI. Bathsheba (3) Pell, m. Theophilus Bartow.

C2 Thomas Pell, Third Lord of Pelham, disposed of much of his landed estate previous to his death, and when he gave each of his numerous sons a farm from the original property, the inheritance to the Fourth Lord of Pelham had shrunken appreciably. Now the sole remaining claim of the family of Pell upon the Manor of Pelham is the right to be buried in Pelham Bay Park. "Pelliana" states that there are at the Pell estate at Ticonderoga N. Y. many deeds which bear the signature of Thomas (2) Pell and the mark of Anna, his wife. Many of the Pell descendants have distinguished themselves in numerous ways, notably in American military service. The first volume of "Pelliana" by S. H. P. Pell of Ticonderoga is a collection of family war letters and records. He, with Howland Pell, and Herbert C. Pell have cheerfully borne most of the expense of the entire series.

Abstract of the will of C2 Thomas Pell

"In the name of God Amen Sept. 3, 1739. I, Thomas Pell Sr., of the Manor of Pelham in Westchester Co. being sick and weak I leave to my daughter, Anne Broadhurst, the use of the room she now lives in while she remains a single woman without a husband but in case my son Joseph shall not like or approve of her living in said room then he shall build her a small house of about sixteen feet square and allow her this and six acres of land. I also give her L60. It is my will and mind that my brother John Pell shall have house room lodging victuals and clothes comfortable for him during his life and which I order my son Joseph to provide for him. I leave to my wife Ann the use of the best room in my house and winter in any part of the woodland and the use of sixty acres of land and chamber and cellar room while she remains my widow also L100, and my best bed and furniture. I leave to my son John L5 to my son Thomas L3 to my sons Joshua and Philip each L3, they all having had their portions already. I leave to my son Joseph all lands meadows and houses and all else that belongeth to me except as above reserved. I leave to my daughter Mary Sands L10, to my daughter Sarah Palmer L5, to my daughter Bathsheba Pell L150, to my grandson Samuel Broadhurst L10, and all the rest to my four daughters. I make my sons Philip and Joseph executors.
Witnesses S. Lawrence John Cockran John Curie Proved Aug. 18 1752. Joseph Pell was then dead.

Resuming the descent from F2 Samuel and C3 Ann (Pell) Broadhurst.

F3 III. Catharine 3 Broadhurst m. Apr. (or Aug.) 21, 1752 at Reformed Dutch Church at Flatbush (now a part of Brooklyn) Long Island to F4 Capt. Nicholas Hendrick Bogaert, mariner, upon the church records Nicholas Bogaert is registered as "Nic. Bogart, young man from New York" and Catharine as "Cath. Broadhurst, young dame from New York". In Nov. 1758 they were living in New York City when they were made beneficiaries under the will of "Matthew Wolf, mariner, of New York". Nicholas Bogart was executor of this will.

There are in the United States other Broadhurst lines which probably converge in England. The writer is indebted for a copy of a letter from Ellen D. Broadhurst of Valley Farm, Hellsong Pa. to Dr. Jean Broadhurst of Columbia University, N. Y. This letter contains a most interesting Broadhurst line also an extract from a letter by Mrs. Katrina Broadhurst Ridge of the University of Illinois. As no permission has been requested for the privilege of publishing any of these and no connection has been discovered between them they will not appear in this publication. Dr. Jean Broadhurst b. at Stockton N. J. Dec. 29, 1873 was a dau. of Winfield Scott and Mary Hannah (Butterfoss) Broadhurst. She was educated at Teachers College, Columbia University where she received the degree of B. S. in 1903 and M. A. 1908; Cornell University conferred upon her in 1914 the degree of Ph. D. She has been a teacher of biology at New Jersey State Normal School, now Professor of Bacteriology of Teachers College, Columbia University. She is a member of scientific societies, an author of several scientific works, and is noted for having isolated the measles germ. "American Women" the "Who's Who" of women selected Dr. Broadhurst in 1938 as one of the ten Outstanding Women of that year.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

"DESCENDANTS OF ELDER JOHN STRONG OF NORTHAMPTON MASS." by E.W. Dwight Albany 1871 Vol.1 p.123 Jacob Strong of East Windsor, Ct. m. 1698 Abigail Bissell. Ch Abigail, Mindwell, Jacob of Torrington, Ann m. Supply Strong, Eunice b 1710 m. Ebenezer Thomas, Nathaniel of E. Windsor, Asahel of Torrington, Timothy of E. Windsor.

On p. 166 Josiah Strong m. 1698 Joanna Gillett. He removed to Colchester ca. 1704. Ch Hannah, John, Damaris, Elizabeth, Mary, Josiah, Eunice b. 1711 m. Benajah Webster of Lebanon, Caleb, Rachel, Dorothy, Joshua, Irena, Asahel.

Stiles "ANCIENT WINDSOR" Vol.11 p.744 gives same as above.

"WEBSTER GENEALOGY" by W.H. and M.R. Webster 1915 p.71 Benajah Webster b. 1713 Lebanon m. 1739 Lebanon Eunice Strong b. 1711 dau. of Josiah and Joanna etc.

On the same page Nov. 3 1749 Jacob Strong of Torrington, Nathaniel Strong of Windsor, Asahel Strong of Torrington, Timothy Strong of Windsor, Nathaniel Ellsworth of Windsor, Supply Strong and Ann his wife of Litchfield, Benajah Webster of Coventry and Eunice his wife, David Drake of Windsor and Elizabeth sell land to Daniel Ellsworth.

LEBANON V.R. Benajah Webster of Lebanon m. Eunice Strong of Windsor, Sept. 26 1739.

COLCHESTER V.R. Eunice Strong d. Josiah b. Nov. 19 1711.
Ebenezer Thomas m. Dec. 7, 1730 Eunice Strong.

From the above it will be seen that the STRONG GENEALOGY the WEBSTER GENEALOGY and Stiles WINDSOR are in error. The Eunice Strong who married Ebenezer Thomas was the daughter of Josiah Strong and Jacob Strong's daughter Eunice m. married Benajah Webster.

Ebenezer and Eunice Thomas had the following children Elijah, Eliphalet, Eunice, Irene, Theoda, Israel, Ann, Ebenezer, Lucy, David and Zilpha Ann. (Lebanon and Colchester vital records.) Mr. Carl H. Thomas, member of the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research has more data on this Thomas family.

"GENEALOGY OF THE SAMPSON MASON FAMILY" by Alverdo Hayward Mason 1902. p.119 #91 Jet Mason child #12 "Martha born April 5, 1758 prot. married Hezekia Miller Sept. 11 1785." This marriage is proved by the "Vital Records of Rehoboth 1642-1896" compiled by James N. Arnold 189[illegible]. P. 249 under Mason--Martha of Swanzey and Hezekiah Miller of Rehoboth married at Swanzey by Elder Russell Mason Sept. 11 1785, on p. 258 under Miller the date of intention is added as July 29 1785.

This no doubt, is the Hezekiah Miller whose Bible record was published in this magazine in the issue of May 1939 p. 162. In that his birth is given as "the Twenty Sixth Day of February One Thousand Seven Hundred and Fifty three" and that of "Martha Mason the wife of Hezikiah Miller borned the Seventh Day of April One Thousand Seven Hundred and Fifty-Eight," not April 5, as in the Mason record above.

Correction made by M.C. Hathaway, whose family owns the Bible.

Will not our members help us a little more with this page? When we ask about it you say it is worthwhile. All of you must have many corrections or additions to various published genealogical works the result of your researches. Large or small the correction is valuable. Merely the proof of a date or the addition or correction of a name to a family record. That may help a number of others who have not access to the same records which you have, and so are held back for lack of that one small item. And the editors will be grateful for your help.

608-P-4, HENSHAW. "Chronicles of Old Berkeley" by Maude Henshaw Gardiner and her daughter, Ann Henshaw Gardiner, published by the Seeman Press, Durham, North Carolina, and reviewed in the new "West Virginia History" State Department of Archives, Charleston, West Virginia. "West Virginia History" - first issue in Burton - may be a lead. Ans. by R-7.

114,309,414,436-P-4, ALEXANDER. As a result of a trip to Raleigh N.C. last September and subsequent correspondence P-4 has located the will of her 5th great-grandfather, George Alexander, probated in 1780 in Randolph Co., N.C., naming his wife Jane, sons John, William, Stephen, David, George, Thomas, James, Joseph, Benjamin and Samuel; also dau. Margaret. This Alexander family was living during the middle 1700's in Paxtang Twp., Lancaster Co., Pennsylvania. Ans. by P-4.

612-S-18, CARR. In my work on the genealogies of the earliest settlers in Ingham Co., I have acquired notes relating to William Carr and Caleb Carr, who were residents of Ingham Twp. in the 1840 census, and who were, I believe, brothers of the Ruth Carr about whom you inquired. According to land records, William was of Cortland Co., N.Y., and Caleb, of Cayuga Co., N.Y., when they acquired land in Ingham Twp. on May 26, 1836. Caleb went back to N.Y. state before 1850, but William is shown in the Federal census of that year as head of a family in Ingham Twp., and as a native of Mass., aged 43. Josiah Sherman, aged 50, a weaver, b. N.Y., appears, wife Ruth, aged 49, b. R.I., as a near neighbor of William Carr in Ingham Twp. in 1850 census. Several children are listed in his household.

A descendant of Sayles Carr, who is said to have been another brother of William and Caleb, gave me notes indicating that the father of these three was a Sayles Carr, b. abt. 1742 in Warwick, R.I., which, as you imply, does not seem plausible. William's gravestone in Dansville Cem. states that he d. Feb. 11, 1871, aged 69. In the 1870 census, he is shown as a. 65, b. in Mass. I imagine that the gravestone record, indicating his birth in 1801/02, is probably accurate. And because he appears in two census records as a native of Mass., I assume that that is true. Should be glad to exchange data. Ans. by H-20.

Feb. 16, 1891, age 69-3-16, bur. Pine Hill. Children: Mary P., 1858-Oct. 3, 1924, m. July 25, 1884, Franklin T. Ferrell, 1860-1924, bur. Pine Hill; Sarah C., B. 1845, m. Jan. 1, 1866, Marcus D. Teeple, b. 1844; Francis Marion, d. Caledonia, Mich., Feb. 18, 1911, age 68-7-12, bur. Caledonia Cem.; m. July 2, 1889, Theodosia Burr Clapp, b. 1867, d. childbirth, June 14, 1898.
